Part - A

Q.8. What is the true or typical alkaloids ?

Ans: - The alkaloids derived from amino acids other than alanines or other compounds are called true or typical alkaloids. (1)

Q.9. What does the symbol P represents in QSAR ?

Ans:

Q.10. Lipinski rule of 5 is used for - ?

Ans: - To know the properties of various drug banners. (1)

Q.6. No. of isoprene unit in diterpenoids - ?

Ans: - 4 units. (1)

Part - B

Q.3. Alkaloids :-

Alkaloids are naturally occurring nitrogen containing organic compounds with the exception of amino acids, peptides, pterines, purines and derivatives, pterines and derivatives, amino sugars and antibiotics.

1/2 It is obvious that there is no definition of Alkaloids perfectly because there are some compounds which is similar to alkaloids but there is no confined definition of it in the other hand there is definition but the compounds are not same as the alkaloids.

Q.4. Lead modification :-

- > In the drug designing the modification of compounds according to their specificity is a very important factor.
- > Lead compounds are an important factor in so many drugs but the less quantity of it is sufficient.

Part-C

Q.4. What do you mean by soft drug and pro drug? Give examples.

Ans: Drugs are the compounds or mixture of some fluids that can heal or repair the cell organs and can synthesised or produce from the host plants or animals.

Depending on the biotic origin and according to their synthesis mechanisms drugs are divided into two parts —

Types of drugs :-

- (i) Soft drugs.
- (ii) Hard drugs.

(i) Soft - drugs :- There are some drugs which synthesised from the natural product or compounds, these drugs are called soft drugs.

- P.T.O

7 Soft drugs are naturally occurring, nature compound containing soft drug compounds. The drugs can synthesise from plants and animals. Plants and animals body has some natural and essential compound that can heal some diseases so we use these biotic species in the synthesis of drugs.

Examples of some soft drugs - Morphines, biotic oils, lavender oils, eucalyptus oils and some other medicinal fluids.

(ii) Pro-drugs :- Pro-drugs are the drug compounds which can synthesised from the actual drugs. So the Pro-drugs are derived from the main drug compounds and their properties are some how similar to the host drug materials.

Examples of some pro-drugs - Metamorphines, antibiotics and other derived medicines.

Part-D

Ans-1) The position of third double bond in Zingiberene

Zingiberene (1) The zingiberene are the type of terpenoids which is found in the oil of ginger.

(2) Terpenoids are the compounds which can synthesised from the compound terpene. "Terpene" compounds are occur from the alcohols and their functional groups like - ketone, ether, ester, carboxylic acid and other compounds. So terpenoids are highly active and synthesised from terpene compounds.

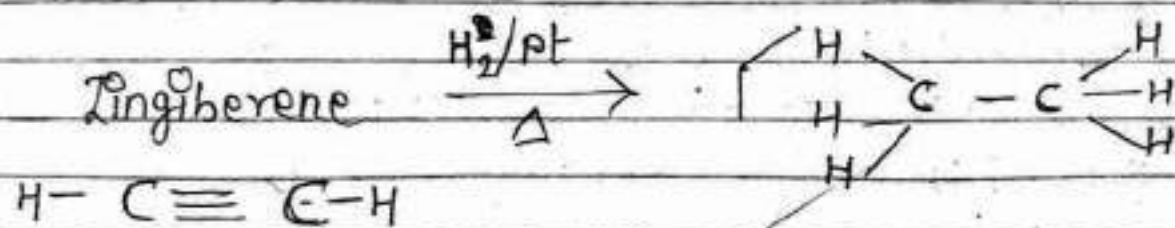

(3) Zingiberene is strong base in nature.

(4) There property is that it has high/strong fragrance and it is dextrorotatory and levorotatory both.

The position of third double bond in Zingiberene :-

We can say that zingiberene has third double bond present because when the hydrogenation process takes place the zingiberene remove its two double bonds and remain a single bonded zingiberene.

When the hydrogenation process take place the zingiberene makes single bonds zingiberene.

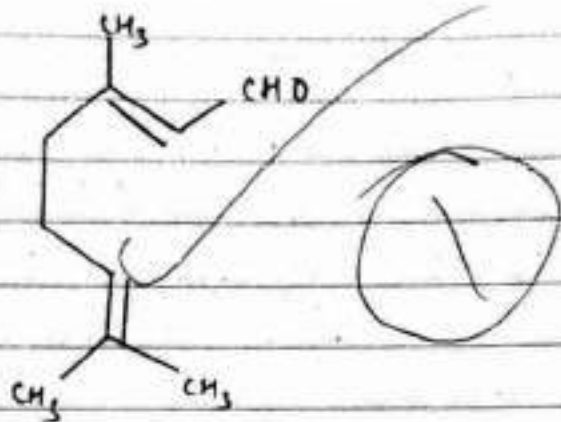

In hydrogenation two H_2 compounds works with Pt compound as catalyst and then when we heat the zingiberene it removes its two double bond so we can say that zingiberene has three double bond present.

PART - A

Ans ① - Isoprene unit in diterpenoids - 4 isoprene units
($C_{20}H_{40}$)

Ans ② - structural formula of citral -

Molecular formula - ~~3,7-dimethyl 2,6~~ $C_{10}H_{16}O$

Ans. ③ True and typical alkaloid - a secondary metabolite

Ans. ④ symbol P represent in QSAR - Pharmacophore
